Relaxing inflation in high CA surplus countries – impact on current account in 2035 ........................................... 161
MIP: the asymmetric nature of the macroeconomic surveillance ....................... 166
Public finance and output performances under the baseline scenario .............. 169
Is it possible to reach a 60% debt-to-GDP ratio? ............................................. 170
Correction of fiscal and external imbalances in symmetric price adjustment case ... 170
Correction of fiscal and external imbalances, with appreciation of the euro up to 1.2 171
Main hypotheses for 2016 ................................................................. 171
Non-performing loans to total gross loans .................................................. 175
NPLs exposures of EU countries by region (in March 2016) .......................... 178
NPLs and provisions in the euro area (at end-2015) ...................................... 179
Non Performing Exposure (NPE) Ratios by Sector ...................................... 180
Securitization of loans in the euro area by type of agents ............................. 189
Distressed asset markets and loan securitization in EU countries ................. 190
Modelling a securitization market ....................................................... 208

Box

Gender equality challenged by austerity policies ........................................... 64
Describing risk scenarios ............................................................................ 155
Definition and data on NPLs ..................................................................... 176
Qualifying securitizations: the EBA’s criteria and the European Commission proposal’s for STS securitization ........................................... 190
Dealing with NPLs by offering a State guarantee to NPLs securitization: the case of Italy ............................................................. 191

Appendix

Investment equation for the euro area .............................................................. 126
Identification of financial bubbles ................................................................ 127
MIP: the asymmetric nature of the macroeconomic surveillance ...................... 166
iAGS model hypotheses and simulations .................................................. 169
Modelling a securitization market ....................................................... 208